He will also bring with him the wood for their manufacture, as it is a well-known fact that unless the material is thoroughly aged it is of little account in the construction of stringed instruments. The violin will be used on the evening of the college commencement, June 16, in the Salt Lake Theatre, by Arthur Pedersen, who is on the programme for two solos.

thrown open to the public yesterday. Hon Spencer Clawson returned yesterday morning from Portland, where he went with the Commissioners the latter part of May. He came to be present during the suit of the Alcatraz Paving company against the city of Salt Lake, but as that has been continued for the term, Mr. Clawson will return to Portland at once.

Despite the fact that the Utah building has not been ready, Mr. Clawson says that throngs of visitors have called every day and have been much impressed with the showing made in the various Utah industries. The only criticism Mr. Mr. Clawson offered of the Utah building was that it stands too close to the ground. As for the site, he considered that unexcelled, and had the additional ground. Mr. Clawson is inclined to think that transportation rates are too high, and thinks the fair would be much better patronized if the railroads could see their way to reduce the fare. Mr. Clawson thinks that $30 would be a fair rate from Salt Lake to Portland and return, and has been told by many Utahns that they would gladly attend the fair were it not for the railroad fare they would be called upon to pay.
